

TESTING SERVICES

Avery Dennison maintains various test capabilities in order to develop tag designs. It does not offer services as an independent test house or attempt to validate fitness for a particular purpose of tags, substantiate other findings or results or, including, without limitation, compliance with retail mandates or standards, as tag performance in any particular application is subject to system, environmental, usage and other issues beyond our control. As with all RFID tags, this product should be tested thoroughly under end-use conditions to ensure it meets the requirements of the specific application. Independent results may vary and testing performed by Avery Dennison personnel may vary due to use of different protocols, settings, practices and personal preferences.

All statements, technical information and recommendations about Avery Dennison products are based upon tests believed to be reliable but do not constitute a guarantee or warranty. All Avery Dennison products are tested with the understanding that the purchaser has independently determined the suitability of such products for its purposes. Avery Dennison products are warranted to be in material compliance with the specifications set forth in the relevant Product Data Bulletin applicable to the product, as measured by Avery Dennison testing methods, for six (6) months, or such period as may otherwise be specified in such Product Data Bulletin. All users and customers should periodically check for updates to Product Data Bulletins.

Tags or other products destroyed or damaged during the provision of Avery Dennison testing or evaluation services will not be replaced. Submitter understands and acknowledges the risks associated with product and tag testing and agrees to hold Avery Dennison harmless from any loss of data or damage.

Avery Dennison shall not be responsible for claims beyond the purchase price paid for the tags being tested or in any way liable or responsible for any indirect, consequential, incidental, special or punitive damages. .
